BLOGGING AND CONTENT CREATION

One of my greatest strengths and something that I truly enjoy is blogging and creating digital content. I use Canva frequently to create images, infographics and slides to communicate my messages visually, and you can see evidence of my work throughout my blog posts. I am a firm believer in networked, connected learning, and I have been involved with designing and composing blog posts and other digital resources throughout my career.

I initiated my most recent blog, Linking Learning, www.linkinglearning.com.au when I began my PhD studies, as a way to process my thinking, gain feedback from others and connect with those who shared similar interests. As a result of this blog I have travelled to Sweden to work at LTU, been invited to present at conferences and write articles, and some of my posts have been incorporated as readings in a number of different tertiary courses around the world.

I believe that through my blog I best communicate the type of educator and professional that I am and aim to be; open, warm and down to earth, with a knack for taking complex concepts and breaking them down into understandable and readable posts.

HOBBIES AND INTERESTS

I love reading and spend a lot of my free time hunkering down with a good book! Usually you can find me curled up with a book and my two dogs; Ruby, the Jack Russell Terrier and Alice the Whippet.

I also really enjoy cooking, and particularly like experimenting with new curry recipes.

I spend a ridiculous amount of time online, and am a little addicted to Reddit and Twitter.

I will jump at any opportunity to travel, and especially love trying the local food in each place I visit.
